Dryden - Downtown Revitalization Project Open House

About this project

The Dryden Development Corporation (DDC) has initiated a project to create the conditions necessary to bring people downtown; a project intended to find the right mix or balance of uses for a new development in the downtown.

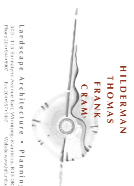

McKay Finnigan and Associates have been contracted as the lead consultants to undertake the study. Over the past few months we have met a number of leaders in the community to learn about some of the challenges being faced by the downtown as well as some of the community needs and opportunities which may exist. The general consensus is that the idea of a mixed-use development in the core of downtown should be explored.

The concept plans which are presented at today's Open House are just that - "concepts". They have been developed as a means of encouraging dialogue with and between residents of Dryden about the future of the downtown and what could be done to revitalize it.

We are interested in hearing your views about the proposed concepts and any other ideas which you may have for revitalizing downtown Dryden.

Please help us by taking the time to review the presentation boards and to provide us with your feedback!
